Suppose that this gas is a deadly poison, all these men will shortly die. Suppose that this gas is but an anaesthetic, then the whole column will fall into a mystic sleep. What general on earth is going to win decisive the women whom we kiss and leavebattles if whole divisions and corps are going to be put to bed for several

That last remark of Fuller's is a trifle facetious. The gas, of course, would be death-dealing. Warring nations are concern- good and bad. They are just buman, lie, I would have tried to have gotten ed chiefly with killing, not with temporarily disarming the

Therefore, Fuller argues, a defending air force must be ready besides she is essentially a daughter gray glant in the iris that pressages to strike back at once. Which, of course, is second-best choice of luxury. She can't help that, poor Sydney Carion — A repeated indanger than any other kind of to international disarmament,

The past century has demonstrated that it costs increasingly more to kill a soldier, with each new war. New means of defense are quickly devised to protect soldiers against new means of attack. Militarists, thus frustrated, naturally are turning more and more to attacking civilians back of the lines.

It is safe to predict that, if another big war comes, the main campaigns will be directed at civilians instead of armies and navies. Starvation blockades, for instance. And, more particularly, destruction of cities by airplanes carrying high explosives and poison gas.

That's the outlook for your sons and daughters-unless a way can be found to disarm internationally.

Champion Takes Things Easy While Challenger Prepares for Greatest Battle and Promoters Over Posting Additional Funds

SHBLBY, Montana, June 21.—Just as prospects for making a financial failure of the Dempsey-Gibbons fight began to get out in front again, business started to pick up this morning when an order for 1000 tickets was received from Omaha. Reports from other agencies indicated that ticket sales were beginning to pick up. Dan Tracey, Great Falls hotel man, in charge of the promoters' office here, was much more optimistic and said he felt sure the final i installment of the $300,000 Dempsey purse would be posted STANDING OF THE CLUBS within another week. Officials of the Great Northern railroad who were here yesterday conference over agreements fo the fight, said they were going right ahead with arrangements figuring there was no doubt th bout would be held.

A threatened clash between the original promoters of th contest and the new management blew over.

Statements concerning the forth coming battle were isned from th emmps of the champion and cha Little Towns Gibbons, son of the
